This is a problem for example if you get a width of 150 px, it will always be 75px. Same on Firefox and IE11, and of course Edge. How can I make it always fit the original width? Note: I'm adding class img-responsive to the tag to make it responsive. A: Add this css. If you want to set specific sizes, you can use background-size: cover; instead. /* css for images in my responsive website */ @media (max-width: 800px) { /* Specific sizes for mobile */ .img-responsive { height: 100%; /* width:100% / 2; */ } .intro { width: 100%; } .navigation { width: 100%; } .content { width: 100%; } .sidebar { width: 100%; } } For more info on Media Queries, check this site: Q:
